SEVATOR SHERMAN'S FINANCIAL VIEWS.

Regarding Resumption of Specie Payments-He Thinks the Time Not Yet Arrived—Dan ger to the Commercial Classes-It Should be Gradual-His Funding Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30, 1869. Having given you the views of General Garfield, chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, on the financial question, it may may not be out of place to give you those of Senator Sherman, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, on the same subject. The Senator from Ohio is perhaps more conversant with the question than any other man in the Senate, and his opinions are therefore entitled to respect and consideration. Ever since his advent in Congress he has been more or less connected with the public finances. In the House of Representatives he served on the Committee of Ways and Means, which in those days was the leading financial committee of the House. In the Thirty-sixth Congress he was chairman of that committee, and was remarkably successful in getting his measures through both houses. Sherman has always been a practical man, and he has enough of the conservative element in his nature to keep him advocate a policy which would involve the country for three years past has been the funding of the closest study and the most thorough investigation. No man probably in the country, not excepting the Secretary of the Treasury, is better posted on this matter than Senator Sherman. No man certainly entertains clearer views of how it should be done, and what would be its effect upon the public finances and the general business of the country.

Your correspondent found the senator at his resi-dence, busily engaged in superintending the tacking down of carpet, and puting his house in order for the reception of his family, expected to-morrow. Sherman has the reputation of being a cold, reserved man, shy of strangers, and disposed to keep a close mouth. He is unquestionably a man of great prudence, a good judge of men and things, and has the rare gift of knowing when to speak and when to keep slience. But to those who know him he is genmi and at the same time dignified and inrhane, always willing to communicate what he supposes win be of interest to the public. Like his distinguished brother the deneral he is man of new words and always to the point. Senstor Sherman is yet in the prime of infemily about forty-six years of age, tail and stately in appearance, he has a good sized, compact, well shaped head, with the high, broad forchead peculiar to his family. His features are sharp, regular and handsome withal. Any person not knowing him would take him to be a well-to-do banker or merchant, and had his lot been cast either in wall street or on Broadway, he might have been bellion? Eight millions of dunces, ied by a few hundred thousand knaves. And I say that the government which so far abilicates its rightful powers as to leave eight millions of dunces under its flag deserves to be received sgannst. The foundation of a ballot box is the common school. I want a common schoolsy stem which shall not rest on the charity of the North. If Alabama doesn't set it up, we will, and send her the bill. I will complete their government I will take hold with my feet of the ground on which it standa and having done that, I will see what that soil is made of, and it shall be educated men and women. Before I trust the great issues of the future, looming upon us from every side, I demand of Congress that they shall see to it that no State prejudice or obstinacy shall leave an ignorant mass to obstruct our progress. The great trouble of the South lies in its ignorance. Awake it to enterprise. Porgiveness is the watch-word of the democrotic party. Non-resistance is the creed of a part of the republican and the whole of the democrotic party. Non-resistance is the creed of a part of the republican and the whole of the democrotic party. We have got an idea that forgiveness of everypody, in all circumstances, sautting our eyst to the call to action,—is a virtue. We have got an idea that Christianity consists in putting our own eyes out, not knowing good from bad, black from white and just from unjust. The stern, rigid, indomitable, unmixed idea of justice is intolerable to the American people, if the republican party had a brave man at its head it would marshal its forces, nall its colors. "No forgiveness," to the mast, set every journal aftoat and absolutely impregnate the Northern mind with the state of the South is othoroughly that every man would be aghast at the very idea of fortiveness. It has the means in its hands, but it will never use them. It has not the pluck to use them. Therefore, what I demand of Congress that it should establish at the North owns as a gift to loyally. ## THE DRAWBACK FRAUDS.

Yesterday—The Case Against R. Mulligan Postponed—The Charge Against James Caldwell Dismissed—More Warrants Issued—

Yesterday afternoon the examination in the cases resumed before Commissioner Osborn, Judge Pierre-pout, the United States District Attorney and his Assistant, Mr. A. H. Purdy, representing the gov-The charge against these defendants and several others, F. A. Howard and Samuel S. Blatchford among the rest, being, that they conspired and confederated together to defrauc back money by means of false and fraudulent youch ers. How this was done was fully octailed in the HERALD at the time these charges were first preferred in court, and it will still be fresh in the memory of the reader. At the last hearing, on Wednesday, the 24th of November last, counsel for F. A. Howard waived any further examination before the Commissioner. The first case called yesterday was that against Commissioner. The first case called yesterday was that against.

As soon as Commissioner Osoora had announced his readmess to proceed with the hearing—it being in order for the defence to continue the examination of witnesses—judge Quackenboss, the counsel for Mr. Mulligan, arose and stated that he had that morning applied to the United States District Attorney for his consent to an adjournment. He had stated his reasons to the Pistrict Attorney which imposed him to ask for this delay, and he hoped he had satisfied him of the equity of this application. He would also apprise the Commissioner that he had almost within his grasp certain facts; that he had almost within his grasp certain facts; that he had received a telegraphic despatch that very morning which assured him that the developments he sought were progressing favorably, and he oeheved that if time be given him he would in less than a week be in a position to produce evidence sufficient to induce the District Attorney to state publicly that Mr. Mulligan was fully exculpated from all complicity; and he, the District Attorney, may perhaps himself ask that the defendant go out of court without the slightest imputation on his character.

Judge Plerreport replied that he had told counsel he would oppose all he could any adjournment to a later day than next Monday. He had promised to discharge the Grand Jury early next week, and he could not keep them any longer. He did not doubt the good faith of counsel in believing he could get the evidence be spoke of (of Richard B. Calaweil, who now lives in Prescot, in the province of Ontario, Canada, but that it is very probable he will not get it.

tario, Canada), but that it is very probable he will not get it.

Judge Quackenboss—I shall have it by Saturday next, if I get it at ail.

Judge Pherrepont—Then there is no use for an adjournment to a later day than next Monday.

The Commissioner thereupon adjourned the further hearing to next Monday, it being understood—the District Attorney pressing it earnestly—that the case must be closed on that day. The case of JAMES CALDWELL was then taken up, and General William Anthon, the delendant's attorney, called was then taken up, and General William Anthon, the defendant's attorney, called Dr. J. J. Caldwell as a witness. He testified that he resided corner of Warren and Tenth streets, Brooklyn; is a physician; James Caldwell is his brother; his other brother, Richard B. Caldwell, said that James attended only to the ordinary Custom House business at the office; witness was the family physician of Richard, and when the latter was slot had occasion to talk with him of family matters; witness said to him that James was poor, while Richard was flourishing and doing well; why was this so? Richard replied that James was poor, while Richard was flourishing and doing well; why was this so? Richard replied that James was poor, while Richard was flourishing and doing well; why was this so? Richard replied that James was poor, while Richard and he was paid only for what he did; James was Joor at the time; he lived with his brother James sife with the brother and that he did not agree with his brother and that he had an opportunity to go late the Custom House business on his own account, which he did.

Judge Pierrepont declined to cross-examine the witness. General Anthon thereupon remarked that he had other witnesses to the same point, another brother; but as the testimony would only be cumulative he would leave it to the Commissioner to say whether it was necessary to call him. Some conversation cansued, at the close of which Mr. Anthon decided not to call any other witness. The Commissioner to a question from the Court, that he had never heard James Caldwell any that his brother Richard did an illegal ousiness. This closed the examination of witnesses.

The District Atvorney moved that the case be sent answer to a question from the Court, that he had never heard James Caidwell say that his brother Richard did an illegal ousness. This closed the examination of witnesses.

The District Autorney moved that the case be sent before the Grand Jury, which was opposed by General Anthon, who claimed that his client, Mr. James Caidwell, was entitled to a full discharge. He reviewed the testimony at length, insisting that nothing impicating the dendant as a party to the compilered had been developed by the testimony, except remotely, by his endorsing for deposit Treasury drafts in the firm name of R. B. Caidwell & Co.; but that, on the contrary, it was shown, even by the government witness, Korn, that James Caidwell left the firm when he discovered the fraudisent character of the business; that he was poor, and hence got none of the Iruits of the conspiracy; that it speaks loudly against his golit that he left the firm poor and just at a time, in August, 1886, when these drawback frauds were increasing in number, and that he was not arrested, but had voluntarily surrendered to the jurisdiction of the court.

Judge Pierrepont briefly replied, claiming that enough had been proven to place Mr. James Caidwell on his defence before a jury, and that he considered it his duty to ask of the Commissioner to order the case before the Grand Jury.

The Commissioner said that this was a case of conspiracy; the fact of the complying had been established and several parties were proven to have been concerned in it. The Commissioner then recaptualized the testimony and stated that Mr. James Caidwell has explained the extent of his connection with the affair; ms whole conduct presupposed himoerces in the frands; as soon as he had know, edge that a warrant was out against him he presented himself voluntarily to the authorities to stant his examination, and in this he has endeavored to show his innocence in so far as participating in the Commissioner in the frands; as soon as he had know, edge that a warrant was out against him he present

Colonie Whilely, Chief of the Detective Service of the Treasury Department, arrived in this city yesterday, and very soon after his arrival he had a lengthy interview with the United States District Attorney, the result of which was that a number of warrants against parties not hineric known to nave been concerned in these and other frauds of a similar nature practised through officials at the Custom House and in the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Treasury Department at Washington, were issued by Commissioner Osoon. The warrants were placed in the hands of Marshal Harlow, and the acrest of the parties named in the writs will probably have been effected before this reaches the eye of the reader. The names of the persons against whom these new complaints are made, as well as the particular nature of the charge against each, are, for obvious reasons of public policy, withheld for the present. MORE WARRANTS ISSUED YESTERDAY.

It is expected that the whole of the stolen property will be recovered.

months of July and August last several burgiaries were committed in Essex and Union counties, Now Jersey, but the police lost the clue to the gang of thieves. During the past two weeks, however, two suspicious characters were observed hanging around fludson City, and their movements were closely watched. On Monday night they were arrested by officer Haskin and loaged in the police station, Their names are David Lang and Gotleib Schneider. The latter is a State Prison bird. One of them had a basket in his hand and pretended that he was on business, which the officer did not doubt at all. Search warrants were procured and a visit was paid to Schneider's boarding house on Newark avenue, kept by John Schuhardt, proprietor of a lager beer saloon. The following is a list of the stock found on the premises:—One Bible, two plates for taking up collections, two candiesticks, one white surplice, one hundred yards of carpet, one set of new harness, one blanket and horse cover, several pieces of plack silk, one case of needles, two boxes of soap, one box of perfumery, two glass vases, seven rolls of ribbon, one pendant (United States), one pair of embroidered silppers. As soon as the examination of Schuhardt's house was completed last night a visit was paid to the house in which David Lang resided, No. 145 Prospect street, Jersey City, and here the officers found one roll of carpet, one set of skeleton keys, several articles of jeweiry, one gold toothpick and two studs. The writing on the front page of the Bible showed that it was taken from the Reformed Church at Benningham, Staten Island. The prisoners were conveyed to Newark yesterday.

Bergen City. THE CASE OF CONDUCTOR GAPFNEY.—It is believed now that conductor Gaffney is out of danger. Colrain, the man who is charged with using the stone, was arrested on an Eric Railway train on Tuesday night by officer Hennessey, of Hudson City. The officer held the warrant issued by Recorder Aidridge, and he posted himself at the west end of the Bergen tunnel. When the train for New York was stopped before entering the tunnel the officer searched the cars and found Colrain. He was held in $1,000 for trial.

INCENDIARY FIRE.-The residence of Mr. W. More-INCENDIARY FIRE.—The residence of Mr. W. More-croft, on Gardiner avenue, was burned to the ground on Tuesday night. The fire companies of Bergen and Hudson cities were in attendance, but owing to the scarcity of water their services were unavailing. The fire broke out in the attic story and there is great reason to believe that it was the work of an incendiary. The loss is $4,000; insured for $2,500 in the State Insurance Company. Last August this house was fired, out it was speedily extinguished.

Newark.

STOLL'S MURDERER STILL AT LARGE.-The state ment that Leonhardt Schumm, the supposed mur-derer of Cornelius Stoll, had been arrested in New derer of Cornelius Stoll, had been arrested in New York is entirely untrue. Yesterday Coronor Chase, not having received any official notification on the subject, proceeded to New York, but the authorities denied that any such arrest had been made. It is thought that if a suitable reward were offered Schumm would be found. SERIOUS ASSAULT.—William Dougherty and John Cole, residents respectively of Nos. 119 and 123 Academy street, were held to ball yesterday in the Academy street, were neid to ball yesterday in the sum of $200 each to appear at the next term of court for trial on a charge of atrociously assaulting a citizen named Samuel Wilson, of No. 12! the same street, by knocking him down and kicking him and wounding him on the scaip with a stone. The accused are mere boys of seventeen and nincteen.

A FOOLISH BENEDICT.-Michael Veldmann, a fine, strapping Teuton of twenty-two, residing at No. 17 strapping Teuton of twenty-two, residing at No. 17 Wall street, in this city, was committed to jail yester-day for having attempted to shoot his wife in a jealous fit. It seems that being somewhat slack in his upper story his companion played upon his weakness and made him believe that his wife was a wanton, whereas really, on the best authority, her reputation is spotiess. On Tuesday night he rushed wildly into his house, partly under the influence of liquor, seried a gua nad was about to fire at his poor wife, when the heighbors interfered and caused him to be arrested. He stouly resisted, but a citizen aided the officer in removing him. THE HACKENSACK BRIDGE ALLEGED OFFRACE -

The excitement over the drowning of Patrick Lane, of Harrison township, on Monday evening, continues to increase in this community. The utmost sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family, while a corresponding feeling of indignation is feit not alone against conductor Parker, but against the New Jersey Railroad Company. Parker published a statement in the logal prints here yesterday, in which he excuses his conduct by stating that he was not aware of the train being on the bridge when he belief the beli rope, and that he only did what he cougo red to be his duty in the premises. A warranh has been issued for his arrest. In connection when he sad arfair the question suggests itself, was there no passenger in the train who witnessed the occurrence, and who, seeing that the conductor was determined on the subject of ejectment, had not sufficient of the milk of human kindness in his heart to pay the poor fellow's fars? The actual result would seem to answer in the negative. It is only recently that a well known musician, residing in this city, but performing in one of the New York theatres nightly, found himself on board a midnight train on this road, journeying from the city here without a ticket or funds. He offered his violas as a pledge, but it was rejected, and he was compelled to leave the train on a bitter cold night at a bleak point between West End and this city. of Harrison township, on Monday evening, contin

The Soldier's Monument.—The contract for building the Soldiers and Sahors' Monument on the Heights, near Passaic Falls, has been awarded to E. J. Keising, of Newark the originator of the plans, for $14,000. The work is to be done by October of next year. Four bronze twelve-pound cannons to adorn the base, and presented to the association by Congress, arrived in Paterion on Tuesday evening. The total cost of the monument will be about $2,000.

Senious Assault.—On Tuesday night two men, named David Freeland and Patrick Connery, go into a quarrel while in Collier's saloon, in Passalo village, which ended by the latter striking Freeland a tremendous blow in the head with a sarsaparina bottle. The assaulted man was instantly knocked insensible and sustained some severe cuts upon the case with the broken edge of the bottle. One of his eyes was cut so badly as to destroy the sight. Connery immediately hed and has thus far evaded the officers sent in his pursuit. Freeland's injuries, as soon as ne recovered his senses, were attended to by Drs. Terhune and Randell. There are no fears but that he will recover, sithough he is very much prostrated and at periods delirious. Freeland has a wife and three children. Connery is a single man, with the reputation of being a turbulent and noisy character. into a quarrel while in Collier's saloon, in Passale

The new Almshouse is slowly approaching completion, but will not be ready for occupancy this winter. In the meantime it is apprenended that some appailing disaster may have to be chronicled owing to the shaxy condition of the present tottering establishment.

LIABILITY OF RAILROAD COMPANIES-IMPORTANT DECISION.—In the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton on Tuesday afternoon it was unanimously affirmed that a railroad company is not liable to damages for any accident that may occur to a passenger while travelling on a free pass. The question came up on an appeal from the State Supreme Court in the case of Kinney and Metiar, administrators, against the New Jersey and Metiar, administrators, against the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, being an action to recover damages from the company in consequence of a man named Metiar being killed on that road some time ago while travelling on a free pass. Judge Van Syckie delivered the opinion, which was unanimously endorsed by the Court. He said that the contract was not made with the company as common carriers. The plaintinf accepted a gratuity, and the defendants are therefore liable to immunity from any responsibility. The Court also thought it a breach of good faith for a passenger to hold a company responsibility. The Court also thought it a breach of good faith for a passenger to hold a company responsibility was accordingly affirmed.

In the case of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company Judge Bedle gave a verbal opinion, which was concurred in by the Court, sustaining the decision of the other courts, inflicting a fine of $200 on the 2 company for keeping a nuisance on their precises, and ordering the nuisance to be abated. Counsel for the defendant, Cortlandt Parker, requested the Court to suggest some mode of abolishing the nuisance; but he was answered with a significant smile. damages for any accident that may occur to a pas-

FOUND DROWNED .- A young man named George Sheppard, employed as cook on the propeller Ham-mitt, now lying at Peene's dock, Youkers, suddenly disappeared from that vessel about noon on Tuesday. All efforts to discover the missing man in the village having proved unavailing the river near the dock was dragged yesterday, which resulted in the body being recovered. Deceased is believed to have fallen overboard. The coroner was notified.

During the month 29 were received, 25 discharged, 50 transferred to Clinton Prison and 1 escaped, leaving the total number of males remaining on November 30, 1,212. In the female prison there were on the 1st of the month above stated 119 inmates. Since then there have been received 2; discharged, 4. PROPOSED ENLARGEMENT OF THE COUNTY COURT HOUSE.—Since the erection of the new Court House at White Plains, the business of the county has augat white riains, the dusiness of the county has aug-mented to such an extent, that the building, though large, no longer affords requisite accommo-dations for the county officers, or for prison pur-poses. It is now proposed to erect an addition to the structure, which shall be devoted to the use of the county cierk and his assistants, the cost of which is not to exceed. $10,000. UNCERTAIN BOUNDARY LINES .- Fears are now Chester that as the State Engineer has officially de fined the boundary line separating the towns of Pelham and New Rochelle in accordance with the surveys made in 1703, the same authority will be adopted in defining the boundary line between the towns of New Rochelle and East Chester. Should this course be followed a large section of the latter, including the marble quarries at Tuckahoe, will be transferred to New Rochelle.

FIRE AT CYPRESS HILLS .- At about o'clock yes teday morning a fire broke out in the house of John Schoneweter, opposite the Lutheran Cemetery, in Cypress Hills, which demolished the building, with Cypress Hills, which demolished the building, with its entire contents. The first story was occupied as a harness and saddlery warehouse and manufactory and its entire stock was destroyed. The loss on the property of Mr. Schonewster will amount to about $7,000. At about the same time a fire broke out in the shoe store of Henry Libtz, destroying the building, its contents of furniture and stock. The upper portion was occupied as a residence by Mr. Libtz, and the family bad a very narrow escape with their lives. The loss of Mr. Libtz will amount to about $6,000. There is an aggregate maurance on bott buildings of about $5,000. The furniture and stock were not insured and will prove a total loss.

The Commutation of Burker's Sentence—How

THE COMMUTATION OF BURKE'S SENTENCE-HOW HE RECEIVED THE NEWS .- At five o'clock on Tues day evening a telegram received at the Queens County Court House announced the commutation of the sentence of death passed upon Burke by Judge the sentence of death.passed upon Burke by Judge Barnard to imprisonment for life. Burke, it will be remembered, shot and killed Thomas Kanejat Hunter's Point on the 25th of October, 1888, during the great petroleum life. He was once tried before Justice Gilbert, but the Jury failed to convict him. He was tried for the second time last September and convicted and sentenced to death. Since that time his wife and friends have been endeavoring to procure a commutation of sentence, and have ultimately succeeded. When the news was conveyed to him in his cell he was taken by surprise, and expressed his willingness to die rather than be imprisoned for life. He did not forget the kindness of his wife, however, and was warm in his praise and adulation of her. He is consumptive and believes that further imprisonment will eventually result in his death. The story that the scaffold for his execution was being erected is untrue. He seems to be in a seranged state of mind and could hardly comprehend the meaning of the telegram.

Further Particulars. As already stated, Major McCurdy, of Cardington, Ohio, shot his son, Thomas McCurdy, last Thursday, and killed him almost instantly. The Columbus and killed him almost instantly. The Columbus Statesman says:—

It seems that the son who was killed was born of the Major's first wife, and that he now is married to a third wife of most reputable character. Suspicions were aroused as to his fidelity to his wife. The son, sympathizing with his wronged stepmother, incurred the Major's displeasure. The matter culminated in a quarrel on Thursday, which resulted in a fight at the breakfast table after the old gentleman had asked a blessing. During the day he threatened to kill his son. Deeming it unsafe to live any longer with the family, Thomas left home with the intention of removing to Fort Wayne. Desiring to get some clothes which were left in his father's clothing store, he, fearing to enter, requested some of the neighbors to get them for him, alleging that his father had declared murderous intentions. No one seeming desirous of getting into trouble, he went to the store needs firmly on the door step or sill, whereupon his father took a Smith & Wesson's revolver from a drawer, advanced to the door and immediately fired. The ball entered about six inches below the chin, cut the windpipe and severed one of the arteries leading to the heart, causing death in ten minutes. Great excitement prevaised and there was considerable danger of lynching the hoary headed murderer on the spot.
